GREEN RIVER GROWERS FAIL TO ORGANIZE

Daviess County Committee Resigns When 80 Per Cent is Not Obtained

Owensboro, Ky., Dec. 27.—The effort to organize the farmers of the Green River district for the purpose of fixing the price of tobacco, and holding it, if it could not be sold at the fixed price, has failed. Following reports from various school presidents throughout the county Wednesday at a delegate meeting at the court house which indicated that only slightly more than seven million pounds of tobacco had been pledged to the proposed organization, which was to be known as the Green River Tobacco Marketing association, the executive committee of the association resigned and the efforts to organize the farmers of the county, which have been in progress ever since the tobacco market opened, came to an end.

The executive committee composed of Will Haycraft, chairman, F. K. Moseley, Henry Berry, Hiram Marksherry, Booth Barrett and Lum Tong, had hoped to get ten million pounds of tobacco, which is estimated to be about eighty per cent of the crop in this county, pledged to the association. If this effort had been successful the organization would have been carried to every other county in the Green River district.

OHIO GROWERS MEET; LEARN OF POOL'S FAILURE

Growers of this County held a meeting at the court house here, Thursday for the purpose of perfecting the organization of an Ohio County branch of The Green River Tobacco Marketing Association. Meetings were also scheduled for Narrows and Fordsville. Pledges had been printed and were ready for circulation, but just before the hour of meeting it was learned that the Daviess County committee had failed to obtain the necessary eighty per cent of growers, and all hope of organizing a pool here was abandoned. A large per cent of growers here were very enthusiastic over the prospects and it is believed that if Daviess farmers could have organized, Ohio County would have stood by them by pledging most of her tobacco.

L. & N. SHOPS AT ETOWAH HIT BY $100,000 FIRE

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 24.—Fire destroyed the repair and machine department of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad shops at Etowah, south of Knoxville, early Tuesday morning with a loss exceeding $100,000.

The loss included two locomotives being repaired and all equipment in the building.

About 100 men are thrown out of employment temporarily.

Mrs. J. A. Westerfield returned, Thursday, from Dundee where she had been at the bedside of her mother, Mrs. Josie Duke, for several days.

About 12,000,000 boys and girls, comprising nearly half the school population of the United States, are members of the Junior Red Cross, which is helping the children of Europe, while at the same time it is doing an important work here at home. WILSON HAS QUIET YULE-TIME AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, Dec. 25.—President Wilson spent Christmas quietly at the White House surrounded by a few relatives, including Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the President, and Dr. Stockton Axson, his brother-in-law. On account of the absence of the President's grandchildren there was no tree.

Yesterday the President and his wife followed their custom of distributing Christmas gifts to the children along the way which the President was accustomed to take on his visits to a golf club in Virginia before his illness.

It was the first time the President has been able to follow this custom in three years. A year ago he was confined to the White House by illness and two years ago he was in France, where on Christmas he reviewed the American Expeditionary Forces at American General Headquarters at Chaumont.

CHRISTMAS TREE AT ALL HARTFORD CHURCHES

The Methodist, Christian and Baptist churches in Hartford all had Christmas trees, Friday evening. Santa Claus was present at every one of the trees and dispensed presents in a very generous manner to good sized audiences, composed largely of young folks. As the snow did not arrive in time for Santa to make the trip with his sleigh and reindeer, it is reported that he came in an aeroplane.

DEMPESEY'S CHALLENGE GOES UNACCEPTED

Salt Lake City, Dec. 27.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight boxing champion, threw out a challenge Tuesday which was not accepted.

The champion was the guest of honor at the local Rotary Club's luncheon. He declared that he was not a speaker which reminded him of the story of the man who went to a dance and who could not sing nor dance, but was willing to fight. "To be sociable, I will fight any one in the room," Dempsey said amid laughter.

FORDNEY EMERGENCY

TARIFF BILL PASSES

Political Lines Swept Aside When Measure Comes To Final Vote

Washington, Dec. 24.—Over protests of a defiant minority the House adopted the Fordney Emergency Tariff Bill by a vote of 196 to 86. The vote was taken at 8:45 o'clock after eight hours of debate. Political lines were swept aside on the final vote. 41 Democrats and 1 Prohibitionist combining with 154 Republicans in supporting the measure, while 14 Republicans lined up with 72 Democrats against the bill.

It was evident long before the vote was taken that supporters of the measure, designed to protect some twenty-odd farm products for a ten-months' period, had the situation well in hand. But Representative Henry T. Rainey, Democrat, Illinois, leading the opposition, opened a bitter attack which increased in intensity as the debate wore on.

Paragraph by paragraph he assailed the measure, while the Republicans, with loud roars of 'noes', sent in proposed amendments down to defeat. A few Republicans supported him in his attack but a score of his own party turned from their traditional stand against a high tariff to join the majority.

Opposition speakers charged that the measure would send the cost of living higher, and branded it as class legislation. Defenders of the bill, on the other hand, said it would save the agricultural industry.

ADmits Bill Drawn Hastily

Chairman Fordney of the Ways and Means Committee, which reported the measure, in opening debate declared the measure was not scientific and admitted it was drawn hastily, but asserted that it was the best that could be had at this time.

Representative Garner, Democrat, Texas, speaking in support of the bill, said he felt it was the only way in which Congress could extend the relief so urgently needed by the farmers.

Representatives Madden, Republican, Illinois, however, assailed his colleagues for "opening the way to a renewal of prohibitive living costs." Pointing his finger at the majority leader's desk he said:

"You men will make two lamb chops cost $1.30 again and you will make our suits of clothes cost 100 per cent more."

BETRAYAL OF TARIFS FEARED

Representative Garrett, Tennessee said he saw "in this bill a determined effort to divide the Democratic party and to make members of that party turn their backs on every principle of taxation for which the party has stood in its whole history."

"I cannot believe the Republican leaders seriously hope to get this bill passed," he added. "I am convinced it is a fine piece of political strategy."

In his attempt at amendment Mr. Rainey sought to show that the bill for the most part carried higher rates than the Payne-Aldrich Act. He also warned of retaliatory tariffs and embargoes by other nations.

In this connection an amendment by Representative Olney, Democrat, Massachusetts, to admit wool in transit from Australia and South America at the time of passage of the measure at prevailing rates of duty was voted down.

Representative Walsh, Republican, Massachusetts, in opposing the rate of 7 cents a pound on cotton manufactured, said the cotton industries of New England are at a standstill now and predicted that an additional duty would result in further unemployment through abandonment of plans to reopen mills.

DEFeat In Senate Seen

During the day a number of Senators entered the House Chamber, and their presence led to reports that they were prepared to talk the bill to death in the Senate. Many Republicans said tonight they were almost convinced that the bill would not be passed by the Senate.

Mr. Fordney said in the course of the debate, however, that he hoped to see Congress at the extra session substitute for this bill a relief measure which would remain in effect until a scientific schedule could be worked out.

"I expect," he continued, "to see

Every person mentally and physically able to do so, should take the American Red Cross instruction in First Aid Treatment. It's a life-saver and a pain-saver on the farm, in the factory, on the street, at the office, in the home, wherever accidents may occur. Here's a young wife who inexpertly wielded a can-opener and received an ugly gash across her wrist from the jagged can lid. Mother was there, however, with the First Aid kit and Red Cross instruction, and probably prevented a case of blood poison by giving prompt and proper treatment before the doctor arrived.

Congress re-enacts either the Dingley or the Payne-Aldrich schedules."

WILSON TO RIDE BESIDE HARDING

Washington, Dec. 24.—President Wilson plans to accompany President Warren G. Harding from the White House to the Capitol March 4 and back again to the White House for luncheon as is the usual custom when a new Chief Executive is inaugurated.

Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the President, said that Mr. Wilson had outlined to him his plans with regard to inauguration day. As is the custom, Mr. Harding will call at the White House just before noon and will be received by the retiring Executive.

They then, under present plans, will ride down Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol, where the President-elect will take the oath of office and deliver his inaugural address.

WILSON TO BE HOST

The new and retiring Presidents will lead the usual parade up the avenue to the White House where Mr. Wilson will entertain Mr. Harding at luncheon. Immediately afterward President Wilson will return to his new home on S Street to take up his life as a private citizen after eight years in the White House.

The continued steady improvement in the President's health, according to Mr. Tumulty, will make the contemplated visit of the President with the President-elect to the Capitol possible even in the event of the most tempestuous weather.

PRESIDENT IN GOOD SPIRITS

Mr. Tumulty said that when he visited the President he found him in better spirits than at any time since he became ill more than a year ago. The President and his secretary discussed a variety of topics, but Mr. Tumulty said the Executive did not bring up the subject of the Treaty of Versailles and did not indicate in any way what disposition he was prepared to make of it.

The President, Mr. Tumulty said, stated in the course of their talk that he was not greatly interested in the writing of memoirs for an autobiography as it was a form of literature which had never greatly appealed to him. It has been generally understood that when Mr. Wilson retires from office he will take up the preparation of a history of the World War.

BILL PLANS FOR

UNITED IRELAND

Home Rule Measure Provides For Two Parliaments That May Become One

London, Dec. 25.—The Irish Home Rule Bill as slightly modified by the House of Lords was adopted by the House of Commons. The measure now needs only the royal signature to become a law.

The measure will be effective at the discretion of the Government at any time within three and a half years. The Government reserve the privilege of applying the law when the opportune moment arrives.

The bill as presented did not provide an alternative either Ulster or the South, or both, declined to accept it, but it has been amended to the effect that if either does not accept it within three and a half years the measure automatically does so far as the section refusing to accept it is concerned.

TWO PARLIAMENTS PLANNED

In the meantime either section declining to accept can be ruled as a crown colony. The limit of three and a half years was adopted because by that time there must be an election and a new House of Commons.

The bill now provides that there shall be set up by popular election two Parliaments, one for Ulster and one for the South. Each Parliament shall decide on the method of selecting Senators.

The connecting link between them will be the Irish Council of Forty, twenty for each section. Each Senator will select seven of its counsellors and each Parliament fairmen. The original bill provided that the president of the council should be the Lord Chancellor of Ireland, unless amended it will be appointed by the

1921 OPPORTUNITIES

Ere we have thrice slept, the new year will be with us, or rather we will be launched upon a new year.
What it has in store for us depends largely upon what we put into it.
For us it holds a world of golden opportunities; whether or not we reap them is within our power to decide.
For youth, especially, is there a rich field, "white unto harvest."

Just at this time, when many schools are closing for the year, boys and girls are asking themselves the question "Shall I continue my education, or shall I permit the desire for immediate wages to lure me?"
The year 1921 beckons to you to come, continue your school work and better fit yourself to be of benefit to your fellow beings. The era of high salaries to those who have not prepared themselves is at an end. Despite the fact that wages have been lowered, those who are specialists in any line are still earning good salaries. The demand for agricultural experts is great and insistent; there are hundreds of farm boys in Ohio County who have within their grasp the opportunity to secure an agricultural education.
Skilled architects are in demand.
Expert electricians cannot be secured. Mechanics who really know their job can always secure good positions. Bookkeepers and steno-graphers are being called for every day. The professions are not crowded; there is a scarcity of physicians and ministers, and great opportunities are open in the field of law and teaching.

Then, boys and girls of Ohio County, as the New Year dawns, make a firm resolve that no matter what are the inducements to quit school, you will not heed them but will take every advantage offered in the next twelve months to press higher and to better prepare yourselves for your life's work. "There is a king impossible to a willing mind." By a few years of preparation you can spend the remainder of your life in giving the right kind of service to the world and will be better prepared to enjoy the serving.
Many a boy or girl has the ambition to go higher but fights that ambition.
If you desire better things, get in touch with those who have succeeded in obtaining them. Do not procrastinate.

BASKET BALL DOPE

The Ohio County Club of the K.
U. played a team picked from the High Schools of the county, on the local court, Wednesday night. The result was 33 to 8 in favor of the picked team.

Greenville and Hartford American Legion teams fought for honors on the Greenville court last Thursday night. Hartford was defeated by a score of 26 to 19.

The crack Hawesville High School team reached here on its playing tour Friday night, and in a very exciting game defeated the local High School team, the score being 22 to 12.

The Hawesville team played Beaver Dam, Saturday night and in a hard fought game were defeated by a good score. Beaver Dam has one of the best teams in this section of the state.

Last night witnessed a double header, the contestants being Caney-ville High School Girls vs. Hartford High School Girls and Ohio County Club of K. S. U. vs. Hartford High School team. As we went to press before the games we cannot report the result, but the Hartford girls having been defeated recently on the Caneyville court, were seeking revenge while the Ohio County Club boys were determined not to return to Lexington without at least one victory to report. Our guess is it both were close games.

EXTENDS THANKS

Again we have passed through the Xmas joys of the year, commemorating the birth of Him who loved us all and gave his life for us.
Christmas cheer was dropped off at the parsonage in basket and barrel containing all manner of good things to eat, thus reminding us of Him who two thousand years ago received costly gifts from wise men of the east. With the spirit of this same Christ we accept these tokens of kindness, with a feeling of unworthiness, and extend our most heartfelt appreciation to all who took part in so kindly remembering us at the Methodist parsonage.

T. T. FRAZIER, Pastor.

COOLIDGE CELEBRATES

Northampton, Mass., Dec. 25.—
The vice presidelect, Gov. Coolidge, had a quiet family observance of Christmas at his home in this city. With Mrs. Coolidge the governor came from Boston last night to spend Christmas Eve and today with his two sons who are in school here, and today they were joined by his father, Col. John C. Coolidge of Plymouth, Vt.

There were few callers, the neighbors, as is their custom on the governor's home visits, respecting his desire for rest.

SNOW

Many complaints were registered by the citizenship here Friday and Saturday because there was no snow for the holiday season. As if in response to the earnest desire of the majority, as nice a white fleecy snow as one could wish greeted us when we looked out upon the landscape Sunday morning. It had fallen silently and evenly during the night and covered the ground to the depth of four or five inches.

TREE AT RICKETTS

The Ricketts school taught by Mr.
Ollie Carson closed last Friday. A Christmas tree was given in the afternoon. An enjoyable time is reported by those who were present.

HARTFORD HERALD AND DA-LY OWENSBORO MESSENGER 1 YEAR $5.10.

1921

Progress is not measured by "figures on a dial" but in terms of achievement. Yet this New Year promises to mark the successful conclusion of one of the greatest readjustment periods in American history. It will stand out as a striking example of the whole-hearted American way of doing things when the right course is determined. For five years costs were rising and price increases accumulating. Worldwide conditions were responsible. It took a long and searching analysis to see that the only salvation was a complete readjustment. It has begun. Conditions representing the growth of five years have been remade in as many months. That's the "go get it" American way—the spirit that assures 1921 being a year of normal good times and prosperity.

SANTA FLOODS HARDING HOME WITH PRESENTS

Politics Is Put to One Side for Day By Future White House Tenants

Marion, O., Dec. 25.—It was a real Christmas at the home of President-elect and Mrs. Harding in Mt. Vernon Avenue. There were no political conferences—just Christmas.

Immediately after breakfast at the Harding home, Mr. and Mrs. Harding began to take a peep at what Santa Claus had been sending for the last two weeks or more. There were literally hundreds of them ranging from cigarettes to Georgia possums. Not a single present was opened until this morning.

The only company that the future tenants of the White House expected or had prepared for during the day were half a dozen newspaper men. They were invited in by Mr. and Mrs. Harding to help eat the turkey which an admiring friend had sent for the Christmas dinner.

It was the first Christmas Senator Harding and Mrs. Harding had spent in their Marion home in five years.

STATE ON TRAIL OF DOG TAX EVADERS

Ur. W. C. Hanna, Commissioner of Agriculture, Labor and Statistics.

One result of the announcement of Mr. Hanna has been that 1,400 citizens of Christian County have been indicted by the grand jury for failure to pay the dog tax. The tax is $2 for a female and $1 for a male dog, but the court costs, according to Hopkinsville reports, will swell the total in each case to a minimum of $16.

The law was passed in 1918. "Will you not," asks Mr. Hanna, in letters to County Attorneys, "make some prosecutions in your county and see if this will not aid in bringing about a better enforcement of the law?"

"I will at all times," he adds, "and as far as possible, furnish a field man to assist in ferreting out the names of those who have unlicensed dogs if it is desired."

AWARD OF MERIT

JULIA A. PORTER.

(McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) looked before the mirror, imscrutinizing the lady resolutely.

"It's my turn now," thought Jane.
The mirror was between two windows and reached to the floor. She up the shades, letting in a flood of light, stepped nearer and resumed scrutinizing.

"Burn it!" I whispered Jane.
She took a hand-mirror, revolved slowly, still keeping up the pitiless
scrutinizing.

"Burn it! I!" said Jane vigorously.
The lady in the mirror was not attractive, though she might have been so a dozen years before. Her clothes were shabby; heads rough and reddened;
her hair, wholly neutral in color, was twisted into a firm knot on the back of her head, after the fashion of women who have no time to waste on personal adornment; she possessed nothing that could be classified as complection, and her whole expression and attitude indicated unmitigated weariness.

"It's my turn now," said Jane to her double; "I mean to have the time of my life."

Jane deserved it. Thirteen years before, when she was eighteen, came the news of the disaster which had swept away both parents, leaving her to care for Jim and Nell, both too young to realize the full extent of the calamity. But now, for two years Jim had been "James L. Bedford, M. D." and Nell was well along on her wedding journey, and of their united fortunes, Jane still had $1,500 left.

"It rightfully belongs to me," said Jane to the mirror lady; "I have earned it."

Hadn't she served Jim and Nell, both night and day? Hadn't she seen to it that they could hold their own with their young companions? Hadn't she sacrificed a college course that they might lack nothing? Hadn't she dismissed the servants and herself cooked and scrubbed and mended until both were well settled in life? Hadn't she given Peter back his ring? (Good old Peter!) How he protested—how he coaxed—how he bewailed his fate—how he vowed he would wait until Jane had done her full duty as she saw it. And Peter was still unmarried, but money rightfully belonged to her turn now.

She announced that she was to be married, her first suitor, Jim, having been engaged to Nell, and she had no time to waste on Jim.

BOLD THIEVES IN "MESOPOTAMIA"

Householder of Basra Relates Experience Which He Declares is by No Means Uncommon.

The securing of public safety is only one of many improvements the British have made in Mesopotamia but it seems to be the one that has chiefly impressed the public mind. The first person who spoke to me of it was an Oriental teacher of Arabic, Maude Bedford Warren writes in the Saturday Evening Post. We sat in a house in Basra on a cloudy evening, looking out of the window, watching the shabby forms of passersby.

"You will notice that the Arab houses have blank walls facing the street," he told me.

"If the walls are broken by windows these are barred. If there are doors these are small or else secured. Do not think this is done for the sake of keeping the women sheltered from the sun off. It is to keep thieves out.

"One night I was sitting in this house with my friends when a knock came at the door. First I looked out of the window. I saw a number of people on two sides of the house. I went to the door and I said: 'Who is there?' The answer was: 'I am a thief.'

"I suppose in America if anyone was so inattentive as to say that, you would telephone for the police. But here under the Turks it was wise to let the thieves in. Why not? There were too many of them, and they would have been angry and would have killed some of us in revenge some day. So we let in the man who knocked, and some of his friends came with him.

"They did not make polite greetings, but they took all the people into separate rooms, the women in one, the children in another, and the men in a third. This was because if they had been left together they might have secretly encouraged one another not to tell where money or jewels were hidden.

"All the people in the house were very much afraid, and they told where their hiding places were, but said that they had been robbed only a few weeks previous and they had nothing left.

"The thieves were very angry. 'We must have something,' they said. So they sent for a cart, and they took what furniture and bedding and cooking dishes they wanted, and then went away. They left us our lives, and that was about all.

"You see how quiet these streets are even now, about nine o'clock? That is not entirely because Arabs prefer to go to bed early, though they do not keep late hours. But they have the old habit of not taking risks at night."

Odd Japanese Legends.

There are many delightful legends about old stories of the gods in Japan. In the Hase temple at Kanmukura, high on the crest of a hill overlooking the bay, is a great gilded kwanon of camphor wood—an eleven-faced image of the Goddess of Mercy—which for centuries has been venerated to the prayers of the fishermen. A long time ago, in the old past when dragons were the land and gods condenmed to play with men, some diseased people saw a great light shining out at the F. Well in Asin. They walked toward the light and ever since

the shrine.

A similar image of camphor wood
was placed in the temple
of course
still to
the gods.
